Luetkemeyer Re-Elected After Sharp House Debate

JOHN A. LUETKEMEYER Re-elected state treasurer

Fiscal Reform Drive Is Behind Treasurer Fight

By STEPHEN J. LYNTON

Annapolis Bureau of The Sun Annapolis, Jan. 15—The dis-sension which briefly ruffled the General Assembly today during its selection of a state treasurer was an indication of a far broads er concern among some legislators over Maryland's fiscal polin cy-a policy which, they say, has cost the state millions of dollars.

a

S

25

. Critics of the way Maryland now manages its money argue that the state needlessly fails to n- earn interest on a substantial part of its funds. They describe al the present treasury system as in archaic. They complain of an apparent conflict of interest in of the treasurer's office. And they say that the state continues to miss opportunities to use its investments for social benefit.

These issues have been exam-(Continued, Page B 8, Col. 6)

Annapolis Bureau of The Sun Annapolis, Jan. 15-The General Assembly, meeting in a rare joint session, routinely reelected John A. Luetkemeyer to a third four-year term as state treasurer today but not before the first sharp House floor debate of the session.

n

f

tl

During the House debate, the make up of the treasurer's office came in for some criticism. Mr. Luetkemeyer is chairman s of the board of the Equitable Trust Company. He was former Gov. J. Millard Tawes's campaign treasurer and is the fourth banker-politician in a row this century to have backed a winning governor and successfully in get the part-time, tokenly paid but powerful, treasurer's job i The post carries a salary of only $2,400 a year.

The floor debate in the House P came before the joint session with the Senate was convened.

Delegate Walter S. Orlinsky (D., 2d Baltimore) moved that co the election be postponed until the only apparent candidate, Mr. Luetkemeyer, could be questioned about his office's relationship with the legislature.

The state Treasurer holds aly little-publicized office but he is one of three men constitution-ally placed on the Board of Public Works along with the popu-(Continued, Page B 8. Col. 6) larly elected Governor and derway, the only hitch in Mr.

Luetkemeyer Re-Elected After Sharp House Debate

(Continued from Page B 16)

Comptroller. Luetkemeyer's re-election was s the general puzzelment of the legislators over how to spell his As a member of that board, he casts his vote on construction, road building and other state name on the paper ballots they contracts. were casting.

for them, beginning "L-E-U-t

As Treasurer, he parcels out state money to the various banks, including his own, in the form of checking accounts and interest bearing deposits.

The Treasurer, since he is ected by the Legislature, telected by the Legislature, would seem to hold a post originally designed to give the Legis lature some control over the Board of Public Works.

In practice, however, a Treasurer has been proposed by the governor and elected without opposition by the Legislature. He has subsequently had little or no formal dealings with the General Assembly during his fouryear term. Not Prepared For It

"The purpose of having us elect the Treasurer is to give us some entry into that mysterious body known as the Board of Public Works," Mr. Orlinsky said in asking that the election of Mr. Luetkemeyer be de-

The announcement of the election came at the morning sesd sion and many delegates had s obviously not been prepared for After some questions from the HAREF Some questions from the floor, Delegate Thomas Hunter Lowe (D., Talbot), stated that indeed Mr. Luetkemeyer "is the only candidate the chair knows of who is likely to be nominated." Delegate Eugene J. Zander tt (D., Montgomery), pointed out that "it has become traditional that the state Treasurer is a member of the banking fraterni-ty and this has raised some questions.' "When we came here this morning, Delegate C. Lawrence d Wiser (D., Montgomery) said, ant governor.

1 to be 90 per cent of us didn't After suspending its rules and even know we were going to holding a minute-long meeting elect a Treasurer. Are we a rub to take a needed committee actions and the committee actions are supported by the contempt of the conte ber stamp?' " "Open And Above Board"

Delegate John S. Arnick (D., 7th Baltimore county), the majority leader, hinted that Mr. Orlinski was objecting to obtain press coverage. Mr. Arnick went on to say, "Everything seems open and above board," and the leadership had no trouble defeating the motion to the salter today by the House. Seeing Blair Lee 3d, the lieutenant governor-elect, sitting in the gallery, Senator William S. James (D., Harford), said: "I notice a wreath of smiles in the gallery." The inauguration of Government of the salter today by the House.

Mr. Lowe tried to spell it out

T. "until a chorus of protests caused him to check back and say, "I apologize. I was reading from the ballot of the president votes.

of the Senate." The good-natured objection to t

Jr., the Treasurer's son,

Nothing But Praise

this from the Senate president, I William S. James (D., Harford) was lost in the laughter. Luetkemeyer got 168 t Three legislators abstanied and one ballot-that of l Mr. Orlinsky who had balled it up and tossed it to a page-was invalidated since it bore the name of John A. Luetkemeyer, Governor Mandel had urged s the re-election of Mr. Luetkemeyer whom he regards as a hard working and knowledgable asset to the administration. All of the delegates who objected to holding the election immediately had nothing but praise for Mr. Luetkemeyer's ability and integral integrity_and stressed that they were criticiz-ing the concept of the office itr tion, the Senate voted unanimously in favor of the bill, which was passed earlier today trouble defeating the motion to postpone the election, 111 to 14.

After the joint session got un-

Talbot), stated that Senate Enacts Bill On Lee's Inauguration Annapolis Bureau of The Sun

Annapolis, Jan. 15—Correcting an omission in a bill approved by the 1970 General Assembly, the Senate quickly enacted to day the first bill passed by the 1971 Legislature—to provide for the inauguration of the lieuten-